

Jazlynn Smith

Jazlynn has a strong passion for giving back to her community and supporting people, especially Black youth. This passion has created many great opportunities and experiences which give her a direct way to make a difference in a world that is greatly affected by poverty. She has had experiences assisting family members during their stay at Ronald McDonald Children's Hospital and assisting children between the ages of 8-12 in creating and building technology at Design and Build Dyson Foundation. Her drive for helping with Black youth was the inspiration to strengthen her research and critical thinking skills to be able to help young Black children thrive in school and in everyday life. Jazlynn is a junior at John Carroll University studying psychology with a minor in entrepreneurship with hopes to become a community psychologist or a forensic psychologist to continue to support the Black community.
