

Nasir Phillips

As a young Black scholar, Nasir is extremely passionate about cultivating young minds and making a positive impact on humanity through education, economic and social justice. Nasir also believes in working in settings that empower community members to use their rich narratives to discover their assets. Additionally, throughout his life, Nasir has witnessed the power of education and its ability to transform lives. Nasir began developing evaluation-related skills during his Junior year in high school as an inter-baccalaureate student. Nasir believes in the effectiveness of taking a cultural-responsive approach in working with individuals of various backgrounds.

Nasir has more than five years of community service experience and has served in the capacity of community engagement, urban farming and conservation. Nasir is committed to continuing his education through graduate studies, in an effort to uplift his community through leadership and service. Nasir is a member of the international organization Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. and currently serves as the Education Chair for his chapter, Chi Chapter-Morehouse College.
