Tania Rempert, Ph.D., is the founder and former executive director of Planning, Implementation and Evaluation Org. Recognized as a dynamic facilitator and leader in evaluation coaching, Dr. Rempert is at the forefront of helping organizations gather, understand and use their own research data to build organizational capacity. With Dr. Rempert's expert guidance, government agencies, universities, school districts, non-profits and museums of all sizes have become better equipped to fulfill their missions, using their own in-house resources.

In addition to her role as Principal Investigator of all projects, Dr. Rempert frequently teaches doctoral level courses at Loyola University, Chicago; the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; and National Louis University, Chicago. She has authored numerous peer-reviewed publications and presentations. In fact, Dr. Rempert was invited to the White House by the Office of Social Innovation to present her approach to federal workers in charge of HUD, DOE, and DOL, as well as others in the social sector, as an example of a high impact, efficient approach to outcomes based technical assistance.

A member of the American Evaluation Association (AEA), Dr. Rempert has twice served as the National Convention Program Coordinator of the Human Services and K-12 interest groups. She is also a member of the Advisory Committee for the University of Chicago Crime Lab's "Becoming a Man" program through Youth Guidance. She is a founding member and past professional development chairperson of the Chicagoland Evaluators' Association and a current board member of the Time, Talent and Treasure Foundation.

Dr. Rempert received a B.S. in Community Health Education from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. She earned her Master's Degree at the University of Chicago School of Social Service Administration and completed her Ph.D. in Educational Psychology, Evaluation from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.
